You're about to discover how to... Cancer ranks only second among the most dangerous diseases in the world. Nearly 30% of our body is cancer prone and only 12% of all types of cancers have permanent cures. Although extensive surgeries costing millions of dollars may save a person if he is in the first or second stage, there is only 2% chance of saving a person in the third stage of any type of cancer. Fortunately, cancer is not genetic. It develops due to environmental and living conditions of a person. With proper care and medical attention, anyone can prevent and (up to some extent) cure some major types of cancer. As a bad environment causes cancer, the right environment cures it. Our dietary habits and daily activities determine the possibility of cancer to huge extent. A balanced diet that avoids all kinds of cancer inducing agents can help us prevent the deadly disease. Some foods act as cures for some specific types of cancer cells. They not only stop its growth, but also cure them by replacing them with healthy cells. Curing cancer is an all-round development process in which our diet, physiology and psychological activity play an integral part. Researches have indicated that most cancer types are caused due to the internal imbalance of chemicals and hormones in our body. Our lifestyle choices like smoking, drinking, imbalanced diet and lack of physical activity are major contributors to the causes of cancer. The moment you control your lifestyle choices, you gain a substantial control on majority of deadly diseases like cancer. There has been significant change in diet in all over the world. With changing times and changing conditions, people make do with whatever they get to fill their guts. For example, there has been more than 800% rise in the consumption of snacks in the last decade. It is because people all over the world have adopted a busier lifestyle that does not allow them to have proper lunch or dinner. Often they have to eat while travelling or while doing some other work. Therefore, they need to consume food that they can easily carry with them. Snacks are perfect for such a scenario. Today, the fast food and beverages industry has become a multibillion-dollar industry due to the changing lifestyle of people. This is often the cause of a number of health related problems including cancer. Try to adopt an anticancer diet to prevent and cure any kind of cancer. I am always interested in different diets and how different foods effect the body for the better or worse. I also know many people who have suffered with cancer so I wanted to see if there was possibly anything out there that could help. I found the chapter about the impact of saturated and unsaturated fats incredibly interesting, I never knew the effect they had. I definitely recommend this book to anyone interested in learning about the relationship between diet and cancer

Cancer is one of those things that kills everybody; this we all know from science, but how do we fight it? Eventually old age will due us in but is cancer the entity that just kills off the elderly? Food is the answer and this book has plenty of great recipes to get you started. Learn how to live longer! :D

I thought the concept of 'How to avoid cancer through nutrition' is new and unproven, but much of what this book talks about are traditional food stuffs that we collectively had in our diets before fast food ... This book was surprisingly good, I think anyone following it would be much healthier

Cancer is a truly scary disease and I think it really is essential for people to know more about anti-cancer diet. And although there is no real guaranty that cancer will leave you alone, I think books like this help us in a way to steer clear of cancer. Chapter 7 is especially a great read since I love fruits and it is all about what type of fruits are great for preventing and reducing risks of some types of cancer. Everyone should get this book, because prevention would always be better than cure.
